SAN DIEGO COMIC-CON INTERNATIONAL

DC GOES TO SAN DIEGO COMIC-CON!

And it seems like we were just there yesterday…Greetings, DC Nation! I hope you're all enjoying your summer so far. We've been all kinds of busy with Flashpoint and the 52 new titles we'll be putting out in September. As is tradition for superhero teams, this week we'll be splitting into smaller groups to confront a challenge. While some of us will be in our offices making sure you get your comics every week, others will be traveling to San Diego for Comic-Con (July 20-24). If you're reading this you probably know that San Diego Comic-Con is a BIG deal. It's the show where news is announced, movies are premiered, celebrities are in attendance and lots and lots of people are dressed up in costumes. With all the excitement going on at DC (see the aforementioned Flashpoint and September events) you can bet that we have a few tricks up our sleeve for the show. In fact, this year we will be debuting a ton of cool new events and features in our booth. From news, to signings, to giveaways, we're doing San Diego like it's never been done before. For example, check out the Wayne Casino poker chips at the top of the page. We'll be giving these out on certain days and in various colors. I was disappointed to learn that they aren't legal tender, but people here have to explain stuff like that to me all the time.

We also know that most of you can't make it to the show in person, so we're going to do everything we can to bring the show to you. Check out The Source blog (dcu.blog.dccomics.com) every day for updates, news and all-access information. There has never been a San Diego Comic-Con like this one for DC, and I'm sure you're going to be blown away by what you see.

Be seeing you in San Diego
– Ian Sattler, DC Comics
